RE: Archival and Literature Review of a Proposed ATC North Madison-Waunakee 138 kV Transmission Line, Dane County, Wisconsin
GLARC Task Order 31

Dear Ms. Lee,

This letter provides you with summary information resulting from our archival and literature review of the proposed route of the ATC North Madison - Waunakee 138 kV transmission line project.

Our research has documented the presence of forty-seven previously recorded archaeological and burial sites within one-mile of the proposed routes of the transmission lines. The locations of previously recorded archaeological sites within the project study area are provided on Figure 1 and information pertaining to these sites is listed in Table 1. Seven of these previously reported sites are potentially located within or immediately adjacent to the proposed transmission lines. One of these sites, BDA-0164, located directly east of the proposed transmission line in Section 23, Township 9 North, Range 9 East, is an historic Euro-American cemetery, which are protected under Wis. Stats. 157.70. If construction activities will be carried out in area adjacent to known historic cemeteries, we recommend that the boundaries of these sites relative to the transmission lines be carefully documented as a precaution against their accidental disturbance by construction activities. In addition, a multi-component workshop/campsite/village site, DA-1031, in Section 15, Township 10 North, Range 9 East, is documented in the proposed T-line route. The remaining five sites which lie adjacent to the proposed route include three prehistoric lithic scatters of unknown prehistoric origin (DA-1104, DA-1073, and DA-1072), one Late Paleo-Indian workshop/campsite/village site (DA-1235), and a multi-component workshop/campsite/village site (DA-456).

A review of the Wisconsin Architecture and History Inventory (AHI) files at the Wisconsin Historical Society has documented 36 inventoried architectural or historic properties within one mile of the study area. Listing in the state AHI indicates that a particular property has been recorded as part of an architecture/history survey. Listing in the AHI is not necessarily a reflection of the property's eligibility for listing in the National Register of Historic Places (NRHP), but all properties listed in the NRHP are also included in the AHI. Of the 36 properties in the study area, none are listed in the NRHP. The locations of architectural or historic properties listed in the AHI and those listed in the NRHP within the study area are shown in Figure 2, and information pertaining to these properties is summarized in Table 2.

Based on these findings, we recommend a preconstruction review of detailed design plans for any planned construction in the vicinity of all of the identified archaeological and burial sites within or immediately adjacent to the proposed ATC transmission line corridor. This review will enable us to determine the location of the potentially effected archaeological or burial sites relative to the transmission corridor and make an assessment of whether additional site documentation or survey is recommended.

If you have any questions or concerns regarding our research or the information contained with this documentation, please do not hesitate to contact me at (414) 481-2093.

Sincerely,

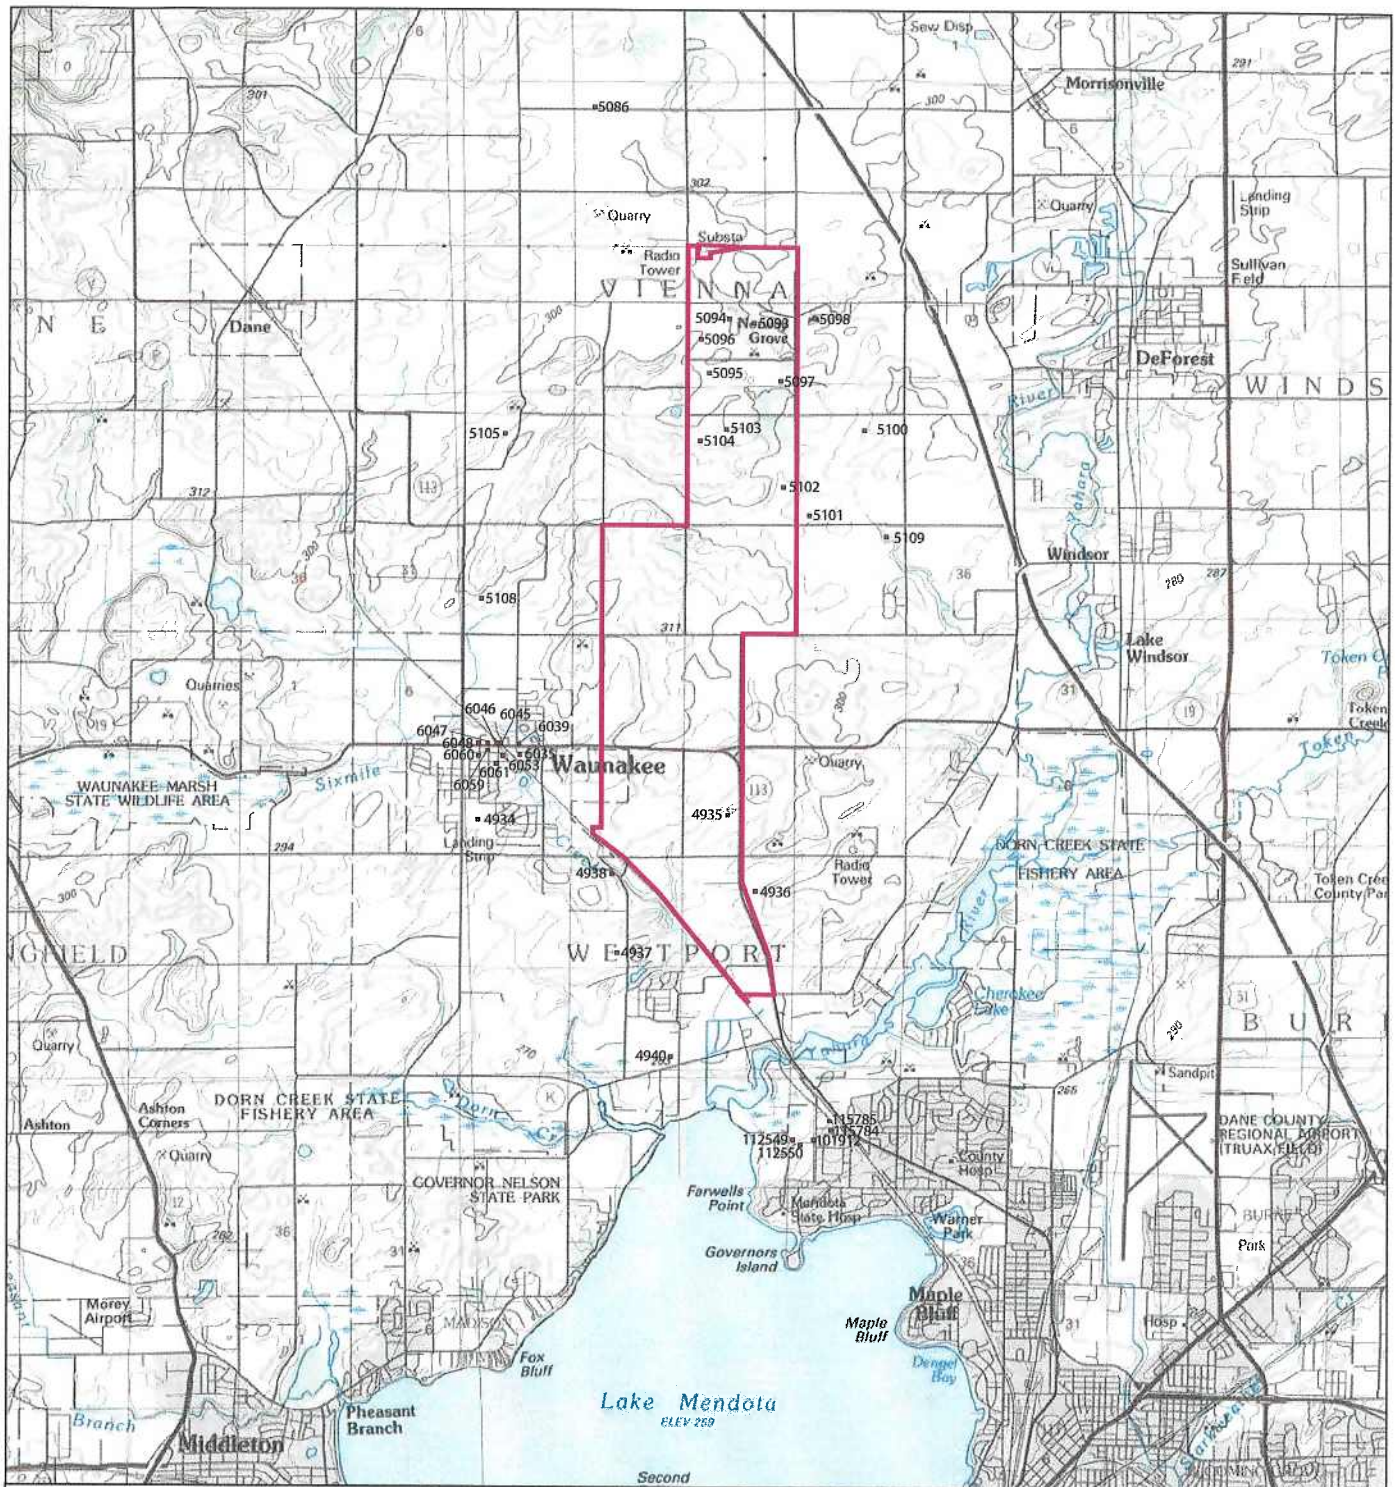

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Jennifer R. Harvey". The signature is fluid and cursive, with the first name "Jennifer" being more prominent than the last name "Harvey".
